

2012: What's really happening

Space Weather, Mayan Prophecy & The True Meaning of The Apocalypse

October 28th, 2009

In March 2009, it became widely known that the Obama Administration had been making discreet enquires with respected metaphysical leaders about “planetary challenges”. Yet, it seems that at least one group of “evolutionary leaders” could not enlighten the Obama Administration, despite the fact that we are in the midst of the greatest transition in the history of mankind. Thus, I made the decision to write a 40 page Executive Summary for the White House, giving a summary of the situation based on my thousands of hours of research. I believe I am well qualified to carry out this analysis, as I have an Honours Degree in Physics and Geophysics from a respected British university. What’s more I had previously written the book, Tuning the Diamonds Electromagnetism and Spiritual Evolution [2006], self published by my own Joyfire Publishing, which gives major insights into the process of evolutionary change by integrating science and metaphysics. The book was good enough to be placed in the United Kingdom National Archives in November 2007, to be preserved for present and future generations, and is now considered “National heritage”. It was intended as a Study Guide accompanied with 750 references, so that the diligent could study the subject in depth if so required, because enough information was provided to back up my logic and reasoning. Yet, even though I worked extremely hard, my book now requires updating, largely due to some several incredible press releases from US National Aeronautics and Space Administration [NASA], in the last year. However, I am still happy, because subsequent to my research, new scientific findings have only strengthened my original hypothesis.

To come up with my analysis, I lived in virtual isolation researching and then I went into deep states of reflection for months and months, but this came after about 25 years of seeking truth and enlightenment. I now see that I operate more like the mystics of old. I had a major Kundalini awakening in October 2001, where my back literally burst into aetheric flames and I know for a fact that my brain has been rewired, which is mandatory for spiritual evolution. Yet, since I am obviously an analytical person, this is a source of great confusion to people who think being spiritual is about using one half of the brain. In fact, I have had many mystical experiences from an early age and they encouraged me to seek out people through books that had had similar experiences. The logic was that through books, I could find people who were on the same wavelength as me, I would find help understanding my experiences and I could learn from those who had also sought truth and enlightenment.

2012: What's really happening

Anyway, the approach to my life's mission has been to integrate information from many different sources. In the recognised Theory of Levels of Existence that arises out of the seminal research of the Dr. Clare W. Graves, late emeritus psychologist at Union College in Schenectady, New York, we find a system that seeks to calibrate human consciousness. This theory has been popularised by two of his students, Don E. Beck and Chris C. Cowan, who published the essence of his research in the life changing book, Spiral Dynamics: Mastering Values, Leadership, and Change (Blackwell, 1996). In this colour coded system, I am basically a Yellow/Turquoise as my outlook requires the integration of data and that means having a brain that can handle complex thinking. There is no interest in being tied down to one system of belief or thought, and this information will help some understand how I think and the purity of my motivation. I am a 'Seeker of the Truth', so I know that other 'Seekers' will understand the drive to could keep studying for years on end, accompanied by a passion for truth and enlightenment.

Yet, there is good reason for all the hard work, as the situation on Earth has reached crisis levels. The UK Telegraph reported the following article on the 17th October 2009, entitled; NASA: World will not end in 2012. The subtitle reads; A NASA scientist has condemned film producers over a viral marketing campaign that suggests the world will come to and end in 2012.

Here is a synopsis

“Sony Pictures set up a website for an organisation called the Institute for Human Continuity which predicts a cataclysmic denouement for Earth three years from now. It suggests that “after two decades of rigorous research from the world's top astronomers, mathematicians, geologists, physicists, engineers, futurists, we know that in 2012 a series of cataclysmic forces will wreak havoc on our planet”.

[...] In fact, the website is a vehicle for promoting 2012 - a disaster movie about the end of the world based on predictions in the Mayan calendar.

[...] According to the website scientists have been tracking a previously unknown Planet X which is on the edge of the solar system and on a collision course with Earth. But the site has been so successful that hundreds of people have been convinced that something terrible is about to befall the planet. Dr David Morrison, a senior scientist at NASA's Astrobiology Institute, said he had received more than 1,000 inquiries from worried members of the public. That included teenagers saying they would rather commit suicide than witness the world end. Dr Morrison said the website was “ethically wrong”. But Vikki Luya, Sony’s publicity director said: "It is very clear that this site is connected to a fictional movie. This can readily be seen in the logos on the site."

2012: What's really happening

This is the comment I placed on my News of the Imbalance Blog:

“Well, there is a battle going on for truth and enlightenment versus fear and darkness. When teenagers start talking about committing suicide, rather than seeing the world end, it reveals the seriousness of the situation. The people who made and are prompting this film are reptiles, but the 2012 hype is being helped along by widespread ignorance of what's really happening.”

Despite my failed attempts to make contact with the White House officials who initiated the original search for answers, my report has to be updated yet again, as NASA continue their practice of dribbling out major news to a general public who really don’t understand the implications of what they are being told. At the same time, I am still having major revelations as my Big Picture view of what is happening also requires some in depth analysis.

Here is some background information that should help put this all in context. I was living in Stavanger, on the west coast of Norway when I published my book in September 2006. Soon afterwards, I was contacted by a friend, Øivind Gunnufsen, who now runs the beautiful and historic Nesøya

Summerhouse which is used for private functions, with his partner Anna Gro, located just outside the capital Oslo, a 9 hour drive away. He stated that he would give a copy to astronaut Neil Armstrong, who was coming to Oslo on the 3rd November 2006, to give a one-day seminar to business leaders. Well, I did raise an eyebrow and actually thought he was dreaming the impossible and so I promptly forgot about this crazy idea. Well, on the day, I got a phone call telling me that he was being allowed into the afternoon seminar session for free. As you can imagine, the fee was quite exorbitant, but he was friends with the organisers, so that was quite interesting. I was also told that he had a copy of my book and he was going to make his attempt to give it to Armstrong and I was requested to “send energy”. Well, to cut a long story short, Øivind succeeded and I was told that he had felt like Tom Cruise on Mission Impossible. Øivind stated that as Armstrong was being chauffeured away from this event, he was seen flicking through the book. Now, why is this information relevant? Well, during the afternoon section of the seminar, Armstrong talked about the Sun and the “hot” topic of Space Weather. He basically stated that when he went to the moon, astronauts new nothing about the dangers of violent bursts from the Sun that are now categorised as Space Weather. There are no coincidences. Tuning the Diamonds: Electromagnetism and Spiritual Evolution, is all about the advent of Space Weather being the fulfilment of prophecy and explains the spiritual evolutionary implications.

2012: What's really happening

Here is the introduction to my White House report, “Planetary Challenges & Spiritual Evolution: Executive Summary”.

Introduction Extract 1

“In September 2008, NASA announced that the shield around our solar system provided by the solar wind has been quickly declining since the mid 1990s.¹ As a consequence, our planet is being flooded by galactic cosmic radiation, providing a stunning confirmation that Mayan Elders correctly predicted that as we approach 2012, we are entering a New Age dominated by ether or space.² The book Tuning the Diamonds: Electromagnetism & Spiritual Evolution, published in September 2006 by Joyfire Publishing, sought to explain what this means in real terms for the citizens of planet Earth, the science behind spiritual evolution and why certain metaphysical energy techniques are being developed to support an evolutionary transition for mankind.³

Thus, our world is now experiencing Space Weather, a term coined by the space community to describe the bombardment of Earth by solar, cosmic, galactic and intergalactic energy. Space Weather is generating a myriad of effects as our world is being increasingly exposed to the whole spectrum of electromagnetic energies, from radio waves to extreme gamma rays, and the ramifications are the subject of intense research.⁴

The Sun Earth Connection Credit: NASA

In my book, the reader is introduced to Space Weather and the associated effects on satellite technology, national power grids and pipelines etc, and this was outlined in reference to scientific papers and articles. Cosmology, solar science, geomagnetism, geophysics, geological and atmospheric phenomena, the effect on Earth's climate, were all explained with the scientific perspective that our planet is deeply effected by changing cosmic conditions. The visible universe is 99.999% plasma, energy that remains in the fundamental state of matter, as highly charged sub-atomic particles. Plasma physics reveals how this energy can self-organise to create a network of power lines that result in the scientific understanding that Earth is not an isolated body in space. Even though this realisation has been emerging for one hundred years, the ordinary citizens of Earth are being prompted by the new phenomena of Space Weather to recognise that we are inextricably connected to our Sun and the rest of the galaxy. Space Weather generates geomagnetic storms and as electromagnetic beings, humans are affected, physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually.”

2012: What's really happening

Introduction Extract 2

“The metaphysical community and indigenous groups that have retained ancient knowledge, have largely agreed that we are nearing the end of a period of transition lasting about 25 years that will herald the start of a ‘New World Age’.⁵ In this regard, esoteric knowledge, Mesoamerican calendars and prophecies, especially those of the remaining Maya, are recognized for providing very precise astronomically based knowledge which describe and interpret the energies associated with the evolution of consciousness. Specifically, Mayan Elders are famed as the “Keepers of Time”. Hence, the metaphysical community, have drawn attention to the end date associated with two of the most important Mayan calendars and have popularized the date of 21st December 2012.⁶ However, a more thorough analysis will reveal that increasing levels evolutionary energies have been arriving from deep space and effecting our Galactic Centre and Sun over the last century.”

Introduction Extract 3

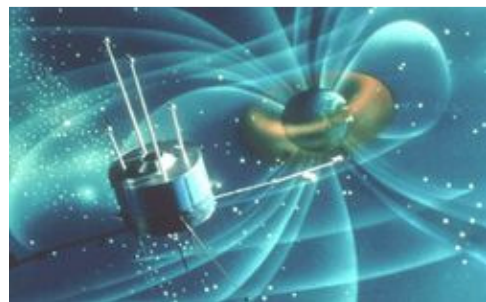

My research has shown that metaphysical sources had predicted this scenario. What’s more, they claim that from 2007, the arrival of evolutionary energies will dramatically increase at an exponential rate, but stabilize at a new level in 2012.⁷ Incredibly, NASA’s announcement in September 23, 2008 ‘Solar Wind Loses Power, Hits 50-year Low’ reveals that as a consequence of a flagging solar wind and the Sun’s magnetic field being reduced, the shielding around our solar system is also being lowered. NASA’s announcement in December 16, 2008, ‘A Giant Breach in Earth’s Magnetic Field’ reveals recent magnetic configurations around Earth opening up a MASSIVE breach, will make sure that in the future, Earth will experience far greater amounts of Space Weather and therefore evolutionary energies⁸ This is a further development to the observation by NASA of the Earth’s simultaneous widening of the polar cusps to receive new deliveries of Space Weather.

2012: What's really happening

As the Obama Administration have asked about ‘what is transpiring on the planet’, there are many factors to discuss. A major issue is the continuous bombardment of fireballs, meteorites and asteroid near-misses that have been occurring over the recent years and which appear to be increasing. This is of great interest, but can only be briefly mentioned here. Scientists speculate that the Sun’s alignment with the galactic plane of our Milky Way galaxy, that astronomers state occurred in 1998, could be disturbing the comets in the Oort cloud, which surrounds our solar system and thus we are getting an increase of comets and other objects entering the inner solar system.⁹ We have also entered a highly magnetized region of space such that in 1997, Russian sources stated, “This kind of interstellar space dispersed plasma is presented by magnetized strip structures and striations.”¹⁰ In 2003, it was then reported that the NASA/ESA Ulysses spacecraft had detected our solar system is being increasingly flooded with ‘star dust’ and scientists predicted this to dramatically increase by ten times until 2012. Some would anticipate that this additional influence would cause our Sun to flare, but due to the current ‘extraordinary’ quiet solar minimum of Solar Cycle 23, this has not happened. Therefore, these new space environment conditions combined with Space Weather could also be creating unknown magnetic and electrical influences on Earth’s climate. It is known that NASA are funding research associated with the “Living With A Star” program and a priority has been the “Distribution of electric currents connecting the magnetosphere to the ionosphere”.¹¹

Thus, with all the other Space Weather related research, we can presume by these scientific endeavors, that NASA and other space agencies are now acknowledging the electric origin of our weather and universe, as indicated by areas of solar and geospace research.

Hence, as you can see from what has been outlined above, there are many new factors to consider that will determine the evolutionary destiny of mankind. Therefore, the author has decided to use this document to provide an executive summary of what is transpiring on Earth that is most relevant to the arrival of a new ‘World Age’ and human spiritual evolution on Earth.

Artist's illustration of a satellite caught in the Earth's magnetic field and subject to Space Weather

2012: What's really happening

As part of the process of evolutionary change being driven by the new phenomena of Space weather, the following Executive Summary provides an explanation for the increasingly strange UFO phenomena being seen around the world. Indeed, the bombardment of Earth that includes highly charged sub atomic particles (plasma) is also accompanied by plasma “entities” which exhibit intrinsic ‘higher’ intelligence; as part of Universal Consciousness, they have been arriving en masse to create a new version of Earth. The situation is complex, but our Earth is managed by Universal Consciousness and as such, we are witnessing ‘a changing of the guard’. However, this transition is not completely straightforward, but due to numerous worldwide reports, it is becoming undeniable that something beyond our current level of scientific understanding is taking place. This article is substantiated by eye witness reports, scientific studies and most importantly, substantial United Kingdom Ministry of Defence disclosure. This article concludes with the implications for mankind, based on the current understanding of evolutionary biologists and metaphysical knowledge. This report should be of major relevance to ALL governments worldwide.”

End of Extracts

The arrival of Space Weather and the build up cosmic energies around Earth is now having serious consequences in deteriorating the operating conditions for satellites in space. In February 2009, a defunct Russian satellite and a US military Iridium satellite crashed in space, as “atmospheric drag” caused one or both of these satellites to detour from their usual orbits. This has generated a major headache of how to clear away the mounting levels of debris in space that is now threatening to cause a cascade effect and sabotage more and more satellites. Then in May 2009, it was announced that the Global Positioning System (GPS) system was ‘close to breakdown’. Various reports revealed that US government officials were concerned that the quality of the GPS could begin to deteriorate as early as 2010. According to a study, “In recent years, the Air Force has struggled to successfully build GPS satellites within cost and schedule goals.” Further more it stated: “It encountered significant technical problems ... [and] struggled with a different contractor.” An article in the UK Guardian stated: “The impact on ordinary users could be significant, with millions of satnav users potential victims of bad directions or failed services. There would also be similar side effects on the military, which uses GPS for mapping, reconnaissance and for tracking hostile targets.” Despite blame on US Air Force officials and an unnamed contractor, there was no discussion of the technical problems that scientists are trying to overcome. But, Space Weather watchers realise that the worsening conditions in our ionosphere, (the region of free electrons (plasma) located approximately 100-2,000 kilometres above Earth's surface and created by the action of extreme ultraviolet (EUV) sunlight on the gases of the upper neutral atmosphere), being used to propagate GPS timing signals is now constantly turbulent and the effect is to make GPS signalling more unreliable. Please consider the following quote from the now infamous report sponsored by NASA, that some have considered alarmist and dire, released in January 2009, entitled: US National Academy of Sciences report: Severe Space Weather Events--Understanding Societal and Economic Impacts, that states:

2012: What's really happening

“For the spacecraft industry, however, the primary approach to mitigating the effects of space weather is to design satellites to operate under extreme environmental conditions to the maximum extent possible within cost and resource constraints. GPS modernization through the addition of two new navigation signals and new codes is expected to help mitigate space weather effects (e.g., ranging errors, fading caused by ionospheric scintillation), although to what degree is not known. These technologies will come on line incrementally over the next 15 years as new GPS satellites become operational. In the meantime, the Federal Aviation Administration will maintain “legacy” non-GPS-based navigation systems as a backup, while other GPS users (e.g., offshore drilling companies) can postpone operations for which precision position knowledge is required until the ionospheric disturbance is over.” also

“It would be difficult to overstate the societal contribution of GPS. As discussed in the first workshop session, GPS is in the process of revolutionizing aviation navigation.

- GPS receivers enable users to determine the time to within 100 billionths of a second, without the cost of owning and operating atomic clocks. This capability can be of enormous value to firms that need to synchronize their network computers or instruments.”

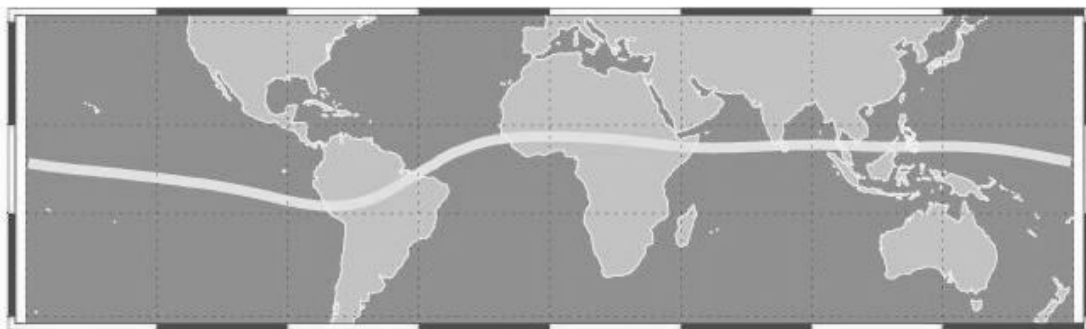

It seems that in January 2009, when this report was released by a working party of scientists, there was no inkling that things were so bad that GPS could fail entirely.

Yet, metaphysical sources have been warning people interested in their spiritual evolution for decades, to strengthen their energy fields and some metaphysicians claimed that there was New Energy on the planet that could do this and facilitate their evolutionary progression. It must be emphasised that not all the ‘New Energy’ arriving on Earth is meant for humans. So utilising sacred geometry, specifically the octahedron or diamond energy field, acts as the perfect receiver and transmitter. It is part of your sacred inheritance and can be strengthened. My research revealed that the scientific evidence verified that there has been a recent and significant build up of cosmic energies being stored around Earth. In my book, I stated that the predicted Mayan Serpent Rope had arrived in 1989, well before 2012.

This is in contrast to the mythologist William Henry, who has claimed for years that Mayan prophecy states a ladder will emerge from the centre of our Milky Way galaxy in 2012, out of which will emerge the serpent rope carrying the god Nine Wind ('Quetzalcoatl'). He claims this can be found in the Codex Vindobonensis and he uses Egyptian imagery and the concept of the serpent rope being a wormhole. Yet, there is no doubt that there are 'serpents' in space, but plasma scientists call them 'Birkeland Currents', after the great Norwegian scientist Kristian

Olaf Bernhard Birkeland, (1867-1917) who was a Professor at Oslo University, who first suggested the flow of charged particles or electricity in space. In my integration of information from other traditional and metaphysical sources with science, I decided that New Energy was now continuously arriving from the galactic centre and scientists had noticed.

The Equatorial Electrojet as determined from CHAMP satellite observations.

This is the foretold 'Serpent Rope' and can be explained as how excess electromagnetic energy in the form of plasma is stored around Earth.

Copyright © Hermann Lühr, GFZ Potsdam

After the Great Magnetic Storm that happened in 1989, scientists realised that we had acquired a new Space Weather feature in the form of a thin electrical current, flowing in a very narrow band, dancing along the Earth's geomagnetic equator. This is a Birkeland current called "The Equatorial Electrojet" (EEJ) and it generates a massive electric current of "millions of amps". It is located approximately 100 – 115 km above sea level in the ionosphere, where it flows from dawn to dusk. Click here for YouTube clip [0:24] of Magnetic fields due to The Equatorial Electrojet (EEJ). As I wrote in my book, even though it had been first discovered in 1922, it could be compared to being like a geomagnetic storm drain that was virtually empty. The EEJ only became part of Earth's electrical circuitry when it was realised that this drain was so full, that satellites were being affected by its influence on the Earth's magnetic field. With this insight, we can compare this to the opinion of Mayan Elders who have 20 different calendars, of which 5 they completely refuse to provide any details about. They have been very clear that we are in a period of transition lasting for about 25 years and they have stated that energy changes simply cannot occur suddenly, like “turning on a light”. As a geophysicist, my concern has always been: what exactly happens when this energy from the galactic centre hits our planet, where exactly does this energy go and what effect does it have on Earth? During my research, I have been astounded at the scientific proof that Earth has been literally grabbing and storing this energy for the last two decades. Yet, according to Barbara Marciniak, an internationally acclaimed trance channel, inspirational speaker, and best-selling author, the gradual build-up of energies is part of a divine plan. In Marciniak's book, Earth: Pleiadian Keys to the Living Library (1995) we find the following:

2012: What's really happening

“When you encounter cosmic celestial events in your future, you will already have been exposed to the energy. So what you are being given now is like a homeopathic dose.”

In her later book, Path of Empowerment: Pleiadian Wisdom for a World in Chaos (2005), Marciniak provided a formula for the dramatic increase in energy transmission rates. Thus, from 1987 – 1996, the “energy of acceleration” will increase 10 times, year on year. From 1997 – 2006, the energies will increase 100 times, year on year. The last five years until 2012, 2007 – 2012, the increase will be 100,000 times, year on year. We are told in a rather matter-of-fact manner, this will have the effect of, “basically sending everybody soaring into orbit”. This agrees with information from Vedic sources collated by Robert Cox in his valuable book, “The Pillar of Celestial Fire – The Lost Science of the Ancient Seers Rediscovered” [1997]. He states that around the year 2000, subtle matter levels are predicted to increase dramatically and then go exponential as ‘The day of illumination’ occurs, which he believed would occur in 2010.

Now that it is possible to scientifically verify that there has been a dramatic increase of cosmic energies circulating our planet, it is also becoming obvious that a dimensional shift is taking place.

Apocalypse

(Greek: Ἀποκάλυψις Apokálypsis; "lifting of the veil" or "revelation") is a term applied to the disclosure to certain privileged persons of something hidden from the majority of humankind. Today the term is often used to refer to the end of the world, which may be a shortening of the phrase apokalupsis eschaton which literally means "revelation at the end of the æon, or age".

Interestingly, if we apply the ancient Greek definition of Apocalypse, the enlightened view that we have reached the end of an age and our increasing awareness that we are not alone and another lifeform exists alongside us, it seems that the Apocalypse has already arrived!

The Electromagnetic Spectrum of Light

Briefly, there is now ample evidence that we are not the only lifeform on this planet and another magnetic plasmatic lifeform lives alongside us. This has been understood by a few lonely ufologists and scientists who have been ignored for the last fifty odd years. The main advocate, who pioneered this new understanding, was Trevor James Constable, who started his research in the 1950s and spent twenty years taking photographs in the infra-red part of the electromagnetic spectrum that revealed the existence of this lifeform. Constable was a noted military historian and engineer who also wrote the book entitled: Sky Creatures: Living UFOs [1976] published by Simon &

2012: What's really happening

Schuster, which is an updated and revised version of the underground classic The Cosmic Pulse of Life. He had come to the conclusion that most UFOs were native to our environment, but it was NOT what most ufologists wanted to hear. Here is a quote from this book:

“These living creatures, these bioforms, were neither what we wanted or what we expected.... They were for us at that time a definite emotional letdown... In the intervening time, I have observed with interest and fascination the disquieting, disturbing effect [the photos] have on all persons whose approach to UFOs is mechanistic.”

Here are some further quotes from the same book:

“What I have learnt can be summarised as follows. These creatures — critters, as I prefer to call them — are amoebaelike life forms existing in the plasma state. They are not solid, liquid, or gas. Rather, they exist in the fourth state of matter — plasma — as living heat-substance at the upper border of physical nature. They consist of calcium and fluids, the metal and the fluids both being in the plasmatic state.

“My pictures show that these aerial faunas are like unicellular life forms. Normally hidden from us because they are in the infrared range of the electromagnetic spectrum, critters occasionally emerge into the visible portion of the spectrum, pulsating with a reddish to orange glow, sometimes with blinding intensity. At such times they are invariably identified as UFOs — which they are, of course, although they are not constructed craft. They are living creatures. Failure to recognize this, and to distinguish creature from craft... has deeply confused UFO research.

“As living organisms, critters appear to be an elemental branch of evolution probably older than most life on earth, dating from the time when the planet was more gaseous and plasmatic than solid. They are part of what occultists term “elementals.” They live invisibly like fish in the ocean of atmosphere. Like fish, I estimate them to be of low intelligence. They will probably one day be better classified as belonging to the general field of microbiology or even macrobacteria inhabiting the aerial ocean we call the sky.

“Critters are normally beyond the range of human vision for three reasons. First, as mentioned, their native habitat is the infrared. Second, their native state of existence is in the stratosphere and beyond at distances greater than unaided sight can see. Last, they propel themselves bioenergetically at extremely fast speeds, often disappearing like meteors before disappearing from view.” [Bold added for emphasis]

2012: What's really happening

Incredibly, it seems that the bulk of the most credible supporting evidence lies in the domain of the military and radar operators who use radar for navigation and meteorology. Furthermore, there is a substantial input from eye witness accounts from military, airline and civilian pilots. Intriguingly, it seems that despite all the accusations that governments know about the existence of UFOs, people have been generally blinded by their beliefs of what is possible, based on their lack of knowledge of how the universe works and the inherent diversity of universal energy. Prominent authorities have speculated long ago that beings could exist, where the cells of their bodies contained silicon instead of carbon, which is an essential constituent of our cells and of all other living cells on the Earth. If this is so, they would be able to exist in environments that would be impossible for terrestrial types of life to survive. Yet, most give no consideration to the fact that in a universe that is 99.999% plasma—the basic building blocks of life, primordial energy—the basic spiritual energy of the universe, that NON carbon based lifeforms are probably the norm and we are the exception not the rule for how life has developed.

So when questioned, the UK Government's response, to the question of UFOs can be summarised by a statement given in 1978 by a retired Royal Navy officer and Labour peer, Lord Strabolgi (David Kenworthy). His closing remarks were:

“...as for telling the public the truth about UFOs, the truth is simple. There really are many strange phenomena in the sky, and these are invariably reported by rational people. But there is a wide range of natural explanations to account for such phenomena. There is nothing to suggest to Her Majesty's Government that such phenomena are alien spacecraft” (AIR 20/12966).

The real crux of this statement is the term “natural explanations”. According to the previously top secret Unidentified Aerial Phenomena in the UK Defence Region [2000] codenamed The Condign Report, released in 2006 due to ufologists using the Freedom of Information Act 2005, it seems top defence officials believe some really weird things. They use the term, Unidentified Aerial Phenomena, in preference to Unidentified Flying Objects, and the Condign report's Executive Summary opens with this unequivocal statement:

SECRET
CONDIGN

“Reports of UAP (popularly known as “UFOs”) are usually described as coloured lights and sometimes shapes. They are typically spherical, disc, torroidal or cigar shaped. Very occasionally they are reported with sound and even with smell. Reports occur because they comprise unfamiliar and unexpected lights, shapes and patterns, in the context in which the observer sees them. The phenomena occur on a daily, worldwide basis. [...]

“That UAP exist is indisputable. Credited with the ability to hover, land,

2012: What's really happening

take-off, accelerate to exceptional velocities and vanish, they can reportedly alter their direction of flight suddenly and clearly can exhibit aerodynamic characteristics well beyond those of any known aircraft or missile—either manned or unmanned.”

This astounding admission must be balanced with the fact that since the invention of radar and operational use in the 1940s and 1950s, operators have been detecting “anomalous” objects that they have come to be known as “radar angels”. The history of radar and troublesome “blips” is well documented and is outside the scope of this article, but what can be said is that after years of much consternation and investigations, the decision was taken to re-program radar systems to tune anything out that had a radar echo that indicated that it was not a conventional aircraft. Subsequently, reports of “radar angels” have been drastically reduced, but not completely eradicated. Hence, pilot sightings can often still be confirmed by radar traces.

However, now we are facing a dimensional shift, the process of evolutionary change demands a planetary refresh of aetheric energies and that includes entities that are no longer welcome in and around the environment of Earth. It seems that there is now tremendous activity of this lifeform and they are becoming highly visible. We were told in an astounding report, Russian Planetary Physical State of The Earth and Life [1997], translated into English in 1998, that scientists had been monitoring “interworld processes” that had been captured by ultraviolet satellites. They had detected “hundreds of thousands” of natural self-luminous formations who were exerting an increasing influence upon Earth’s geophysical fields and biosphere. In fact, these entities were caught changing the electromagnetic grid of our planet, just like we have been told in channelled messages! Russian scientists, who felt duty bound to share the news of this incredible historical event, revealed what was taking place as, “a general reorganization of the electro-magnetosphere (the electromagnetic skeleton) of our planet”.

This is not all. They also stated that they had noted an “exodus” of these light beings and detailed of an incident now known as the “Belokurikha flame”. The documentation included a photograph taken in south eastern part of the Belokurikha massif, Russia and we are told, “The flame grew up from the Earth, then rolled itself into a bright ball, rapidly flew up and disappeared in the sky”. This is some serious confirmation of channelled sources who informed the metaphysical community that “placeholder entities” were living en masse and that there was “a changing of the guard”. Please note, there is now some serious two-way traffic taking place and this is now reflected in thousands of reports of lights in the skies.

2012: What's really happening

Yet, research reveals that there are certain places on the Earth where “anomalous” lights have been seen for hundreds of years. In Australia, there are the “Min Min” lights that have been visible for 70 years and have become a tourist attraction at the town of Boulia, in Queensland, Australia. In Thailand, the bung fai paya nak, or Naga fireballs in English, spring up every October from the Mekong River in Thailand. This was kept a secret by locals for centuries, but it was discovered by outsiders and became so famous that the Naga Fireball Festival draws 400,000 people every year, to see sometimes hundreds or even thousands of mysterious fiery balls of light popping out of the river. Even Time magazine has covered the event, reporting that “each year, anything from 200 to 800 of the fiery orbs are sighted along a 100-kilometer stretch of the river”. In the US, research has focused around the Hornet Spooklights, named after a town in Missouri. Research has been carried out in Hessdalen, a remote valley in Norway where there have been sightings since the 1940s and scientific research started in 1983. Scientists now believe that the phenomenon has been identified as a flying luminous object with certain characteristics that make it unique to science. These characteristics are so special that the EMBLA international team of scientists state that their findings can lead scientists to understand new concepts in science. This article will not discuss the “orb phenomena” that most think represents interdimensional energy that can be detected by digital cameras. Plasma physics reveal that plasma can take on different states that are basically fluid or liquid and crystalline. But the liquid state can become very fiery – a liquid fire – and so interestingly, Qigong practitioners refer to ‘water chi’ and ‘fire chi’. Most certainly at this time, we are seeing a tremendous amount of fire chi in the skies and particularly in the UK, where there are now hundreds if not thousands of recent reports where people see orange or red lights in the sky, or a “ball of fire”. For many, their first initial thought is that they are seeing a plane on fire, there are even reports where people have rung the emergency services...

Obviously, the research that substantiates the understanding that we are now in the midst of a massive shift of aetheric energies requires an in depth study of research and reports in the public domain, that have taken hundreds of thousands of man-hours to generate, covering many different scientific disciplines, massive UFO databases and metaphysical literature. Therefore, I will just cite a few reports to illustrate the wonder that is now taking place around the world.

The Bright Light “Little Angel”

UK UFO Sightings, 22nd September 2009
Location of Sighting: Ifield Crawley Sussex
Date of Sighting: 1969
Time: 7pm
Witness Name: U. Allman

2012: What's really happening

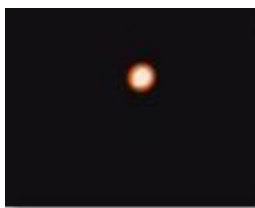

“Witness Statement: Standing with my dog outside my house . There was low cloud and all of a sudden a bright light came down I thought it was a meteorite but it stopped all of a sudden and flew faster than anything I have ever known to the south. I have been a pilot for 33 years and this happened within the Gatwick Zone. I telephoned Gatwick Air Traffic Control for confirmation and they had seen it and called it “Little Angel” I was very frightened as there seemed to be no explanation as to what could travel so fast. This was confirmed by a resident in Horley in the local paper. Very frightening experience especially as I was and still am a pilot so I know what to expect in the air.”

On my News of the Imbalance blog, I stated the following:

Comment: Now, this sighting is 40 years old, but it is extremely useful in revealing that radar personnel were very familiar with anomalous objects that they could detect on radar, but could not be seen with the eye, even if the object was in visible range. Ever since the invention of radar in the 1940s, invisible objects have been called "Radar Angels" because a signal has been returned that implies that it has detected something in the air. In this case, the object was seen by this witness and called “Little Angel” by Gatwick Air Traffic Controllers, who were very use to this kind of activity.

Quite frankly, the nonchalant attitude of air traffic controllers is in stark contrast to members of the general public who are not so familiar with interdimensional entities. Hence, the following recent report logged by an extremely concerned citizen.

Irate of Lytham St Annes, Lancashire [UK]

UK UFO Sightings, 30th September 2009
Location of Sighting: Lytham St Annes,
Date of Sighting: Sunday 27 September 2009
Time: 20:15
Witness Name: Richard Eaves

“Witness Statement: “I was sat in the living room with my mother and step-father when my mother interrupted the conversation and pointed out of the window. Traversing horizontally through the sky from west-east were two bright orange balls. We rushed outside and watched as the objects moved at a steady speed and close together, one slightly above the other and in total silence. The weather was windy and gusting, yet the pair maintained a steady speed and course. It was dark and the balls were very bright. The objects were roughly half a mile away, though distance and size of the objects was difficult to ascertain, given the darkness and the only reference being the houses immediately opposite. As the objects moved easterly in front of our house and into the distance, they appeared to separate, at a steady speed, one continuing on it's level path, one climbing until they were separated by one or two thousand feet and disappearing in the distance. Myself and my mother have much aviation experience and have lived close to the airport for many years and we have never seen anything like these things before. Having old co-workers and friends working at the airport, my mother phoned air traffic control to report the incident. A conversation took place which I am not sure I am at liberty to disclose, but their answer, (and they did recognize the objects and provide an 'answer') was not satisfactory and raises questions. I stumbled across this site whilst hoping to shed some light on my sighting, and am amazed to see similar reports in the area. I also found this report and [video \[UFO spotted in Fylde sky?\]](#), posted on the Blackpool Evening Gazette website on 16th July 2009. The object in the video is extremely similar to the objects I saw, though the objects in St Annes were either much larger than the object in Fleetwood, or were much closer to us. I will be following this site closely to hear of any other reports. Eyes on the skies people in the Fylde! The following additional information was also submitted by Richard: re previous submission.

2012: What's really happening

I have read the 'Chinese lantern' information and have taken a few things into consideration. Unless these lanterns were extremely large, then surely ATC [Air Traffic Control] would not be able to see them? I was facing south viewing these objects with the airport/control tower about 1-1.5 miles behind me. I challenge anyone to spot a Chinese lantern at this distance amongst all the sub-urban light pollution. Secondly, if they were Chinese lanterns, and if ATC [Air Traffic Control] had actually managed to identify them as such, then they must have been extremely close to me, close enough for the framework or material of the lantern to light up. No, these objects were quite large and viewed at distance. In defense of the Lantern Theory, the wind was blowing from the west, possibly aiding a lantern in flight, but there were gusts which surely would have affected the paths of these objects? Smooth and level flight would seem quite difficult. I will be talking to a couple of pilots to see what they think about it all. If you guys think the lantern theory holds up then I'm all ears for a proper explanation. Thank you and if you think my report is a load of rubbish then please don't publish! Just after a decent explanation is all... and why are hundreds of people suddenly releasing Chinese lanterns??" [Bold Added For Emphasis]

Again, there are now many reports of these fiery orbs and some that look like meteors becoming very visible to ordinary folk, but they are of absolutely no interest to the military or air traffic controllers. It is beyond the scope of this article to make a thorough analysis of the various interesting activity that has been taking place, but it is important to note the usual official response.

Orange UFO spotted above Chester skies [UK]

Chester Chronicle, 30th April 2009

“A CITY centre resident was amazed on spotting a UFO flying across the Chester skyline on Sunday evening while standing on his balcony. [...] He said: “I could see this orange ball rising up, at a 90 degree angle, straight up, then it just sat there, sat still for a few seconds. To my amazement it started moving side-ways. Right away I recognised it wasn’t something normal that I had ever seen before.” [...] The Ministry of Defence was “not aware of any incidents occurring at that time”. A spokeswoman said: “The MoD examines reports solely to establish whether UK airspace may have been compromised by hostile or unauthorised military activity. Unless there is evidence of a potential threat, there is no attempt to identify the nature of each sighting reported.” [Bold Added For Emphasis]

This scenario is absolutely incredible. What’s more, there have been very few reports that point out the real truth, I have blogged a few and here is one example.

WOODFORD GREEN: MoD appeals for calm after UFO sighting

Local Guardian, 29th February 2008

“THE Ministry of Defence (MoD) has appealed for calm after a UFO was spotted over Woodford Green. Two residents have contacted the Guardian saying they saw a strange object flying through the sky last weekend above the Winston Churchill statue on Woodford Green. MoD spokeswoman Susan Coulthard said: “It’s certainly common that people see something they don’t understand. There are many possible explanations for such sightings, whether it is aircraft, balloons or other similar objects.”

Crowds in awe as formation of mysterious orange lights appear over UK village

Manchester Evening News, 14th August 2008

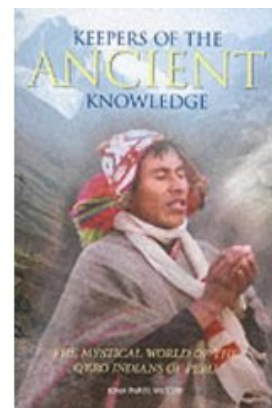

“CROWDS of people in Stretford watched in awe as a formation of mysterious orange lights hovered low over their houses last night. The intensely bright orbs, the colour of the setting sun, were spotted by dozens of residents between 10 and 11pm. Motorists stopped their cars and neighbours on several streets congregated outside to watch the orbs pass slowly overhead.” “Matthew Darsley, 31, of Haworth Drive, said: “It was the strangest thing I've ever seen. They looked as if they were on fire, really bright orange orbs. We spotted eight or nine go over my house between 10 and 11pm.....These things were massive. The first one I saw was just below the cloud line but the others were probably only about 300ft up.” “Experts in defence intelligence staff reported in 2000 that many UFOs are in fact an atmospheric phenomenon, extremely hot gases (plasmas) created by charges of electricity.”

2012: What's really happening

Despite, the fear mongering taking place to promote sensationalist Hollywood style films about 2012 and other efforts loaded with half-baked ideas that cannot be substantiated scientifically or otherwise, there is unequivocal evidence that Mayan Elders and other Keepers of Ancient Knowledge, as well as many metaphysical groups have truly understood that we are in a period of massive transition. What I have done is to explain how some of those changes have been detected and are changing our perception of reality. However, it must be stated that many scientists have already detected evolutionary changes and are trying to relate this to global warming, but the only problem is that global temperatures have not risen for at least 10 years and now scientists are conceding that we are most likely headed for a period of about 30 years of cooling. Whatever, Space Weather is a fact, the new Equatorial Electrojet that acts as depository of cosmic energies, is a fact, the existence of interdimensional plasma entities, that the military have called Unidentified Aerial Phenomena is a fact and they have become very visible in recent years to the point where one channelled source has stated that governments will “officially” announce the existence of this lifeform. It must be noted that many governments have started to release their previously top secret UFO files. This is occurring at the same time that the numbers of sightings have increased dramatically, a fact noted by ufologists who have monitoring activity for decades. It is beyond the scope of this article to talk about changes to our space-time, but scientists have already noticed a major change that has gone unnoticed by the vast majority of commentators.

In the book, The Keepers of Ancient Knowledge: The Mystical World of the Q'ero Indians of Peru [2002] by Joan Parisi Wilcox, details a comprehensive overview of peruvian mysticism, prophecies and interviews with the Q'ero, who are believed to be Inka descendents and are highly respected for retaining the Andean mystical-shamanic tradition, hence the reputation as “keepers of the ancient knowledge”. The prophecies outlined correspond with those of the Maya and Hopi that focus around the famous 2012 date, but their unique perspective, emphasises our participation in the conscious evolution of humankind. Thus we find:

2012: What's really happening

“From approximately August 1, 1990, to August 1, 1993, according to Andean prophecy, the world experienced a pachakuti, an “overturning of space-time”. [...] Within the prophetic tradition, the term pachakuti is applied to any cosmic transformation. Such a movement of energy, of consciousness, ripples through space-time, affecting every aspect of our sense of selfhood in time and space and of our sense of interconnectedness with the Great Web of Being. A pachakuti signals a dynamic point of intersection in space-time between human consciousness and kawsay, the multi-dimensional creative principle and the animating energy of the cosmos, an intersection from which the arrow of time for each possible future is nudged in one direction or the other.”
pg 55

“According to Andean prophecy, such a cosmic reordering took place in the early 1990s, ushering in the formative years of the fabled Taripay Pacha, the Age of Meeting Ourselves Again.” pg 56

“During the Taripay Pacha, an intricate web of interaction will be rewoven between the human and non-human, the physical and metaphysical, and the natural and supernatural, an interaction that was once the ordinary state of being in the dim recesses of history. Thus Taripay Pacha is not so much the creation of a new form as the remembering of an ancient form, when we lived in sync with the pulse of the cosmos instead of, as we do now, with artificial rhythms of manmade time.” pg 61

“We are living in the time of the prophecy of the Taripay Pacha— the Age of Meeting Ourselves Again. This is the time during which we can transform our relationship to the kawsay pacha, evolving, stepping more fully into our energy bodies and generating heightened modes of awareness.” pg 49

There is no doubt that massive evolutionary changes are taking place that are being driven by the arrival of solar, cosmic, galactic and intergalactic energy. The insights that have been outlined here are only a small fraction of the effort by many people to understand the true nature of our reality, but this article has been written for Seekers of the Truth and I hope you find it enlightening.

Susan Joy Rennison, B. Sc. Hons. (Physics with geophysics)

28th October 2009

Further Information

Space Weather = New Energy Link

Space Weather will increasingly change our modern way of life on Earth. Here is a selection of information sources that explain the impact now.

It's Official: The New Cosmic Age has arrived! Link

The latest NASA press releases announcing how all life on Earth is being impacted by Space Weather.

Best of the Blog - Space Weather Link

The latest Space Weather News

Mayan Space-Time Science Link

Mayan Space-Time Science explained by a leading Mayan voice in the world today.

2012, Galactic Cosmology & A New World Age Link

Article examining 2012 myths and understanding the Mayan prediction that we are entering a New World Age lasting 5,200 years, that will be dominated by the ether or space.

Watch Out! Planet Under Reconstruction! Link

Article explaining the fulfillment of 2012 Mayan Prophecy, the upheaval caused by Space Weather, the concept of "The Planetary Refresh" and the science to explain the appearance of Unidentified Aerial Phenomena [UAP].

Unidentified Aerial Phenomena* Index Link

This UAP index is for those seeking sources of information that explains strange new phenomena in the skies across the world.

The Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Video Index Link

This UAP Video Index is for those seeking video highlights and documentaries to explain strange new phenomena in the skies across the world.

Best of the Blog - Orbs, UAP Traffic & UFO Disclosure Link

The latest UAP News

About the Author:

Susan Joy Rennison (B.Sc. Hons.) has spent nearly 30 years as an alternative free-thinking individual. She has an honors degree in Physics and Geophysics from a British University) and is now an author, independent researcher, teacher and speaker. She currently resides in Olten, Switzerland

Susan Joy Rennison

For background information and sample pages of Tuning the Diamonds: Electromagnetism & Spiritual Evolution, please visit the website www.joyfirepublishing.com. To find previous radio interviews, articles, and her “The News of the Imbalance”, please visit www.susanrennison.com.

